

PRESS RELEASE

MARK WILLIAMS JOINS BCD TRAVEL CONSULTING

Former ACTE president leaves IBM to join BCD Travel's global consulting practice

Dallas, Texas, 5 September 2006 – BCD Travel announced today that as part of the continuing expansion of its global consulting practice, Mark Williams has joined the organization as Vice President, Consulting.

Drawing on his extensive expertise in the travel management sector, Williams will be responsible for leading client engagements for the consulting practice. He will report directly to Mary Ellen George, General Manager of BCD Travel Consulting.

Williams joins BCD Travel Consulting from his position as Business Travel Outsourcing Client Manager – Travel for IBM's Integrated Supply Chain Procurement Services Practice. As such, he supervised the maintenance of day-to-day client relationships, developed and implemented strategic sourcing strategy, and oversaw the sourcing and implementation of all aspects of client travel programs.

"With 16 years of travel management experience, and as a former president of the Association of Corporate Travel Executives (ACTE), Mark is highly regarded within the corporate travel industry," said Mary Ellen George. "His experience, insight and credibility will further strengthen BCD Travel Consulting's reputation for delivering progressive, integrated and comprehensive solutions."
